KING OF RASCALS BROUGHT TO BOOK

Swindler With Salt Lake Record Arrested in Australia.

FOOLED "NICK" GROESBECK

LONG AND VARIED CAREER OF CRIME IS HALTED.

CAMUEL OAKLEY CRAWFORD. a man of many aliases, variously known in this country as a lawhanker, political orator, real estate operator, spiritualist, litterateur, mining speculator, organizer, bigamist and confidence man generally, has been arrested in Australia on the charge of obtaining a large sum of money by false pretenses from a woman who had become interested in his teachings and work as leader of a spiritualistic movement called "Students of Truth." And thereby hangs a tale with more or less interest to Sait Lakers, for during his career of crime Crawford at one time made Zion his home. Before he saw social and financial ills which disturb the nations throughout the world. He sought to show that the gospel of Jesus Christ, if properly understood and applied, would act as a cure for these evils. He contended that in the course of time the world would be as nearly perfect as it is possible for a world to become, because the religion of the Mormons would be universally believed, and where its teachings are accepted obtaining a large sum of money by made Zion his home. Before he saw fit to migrate he had so ingratiated himself into the confidences of one of its wealthiest citizens that he was enabled to take with him when he went south a large sum of money which he had secured under false pretenses.

That was away back in 1875, when Salt Lake was the home of many "Winter Mormons," or "Ephraims," as they were sometimes called. People in those days were on the alert for con-fidence men, but that did not prevent Crawford from making a "flash" and performing a good "get away" with a heat sum, estimated at about $5,000.

Known Hiere as Bonner. In Salt Lake Crawford went under the name of "Eugene Bonner." He came here from San Francisco, and was then between 30 and 35 years of age. He was a pleasant talker, polished of manners and a good dresser. His apparently frank demeanor, winning ways and Chesterfield manners won the confidence of Nicholas Groesbeck. In due course of time Bonner announced that he had embraced the Mormon faith, to further his standing in the community and assist him in his confidence game. He was a man of great schemes. In one of his imaginary projects he interested Mr. Groesbeck, at se house, it is stated, he lived for

In the course of the plans of the young man it became necessary for papers to be signed, which were negotiable. That was what the fellow had been working for. When they were once in his possession his future course was plain sailing. It was not long before the papers were turned into cash, and a few days later the "Winter Mormon" folded his tent like an Arab and disappeared.

It did not take Mr. Groesbeck long to awaken to the realization that he had been victimized, and he went to Texas, where Eonner had been traced. No arrests were made, and the young man and his former host parted their ways for all times to come.

Bonner Continues Career.

Since then "Nick" Groesbeck has passed away, as have most of those with whom he was associated in a business and social way, while Bon-ner continued his career of crime in various parts of the world whither his flight took him to escape justice at the place where he turned his latest

But it was some time before the young man was forgotten in Zion, because he had added another laurel to his wreath of criminal fame by swindling one of Zion's shrewdest financiers and business men. It was the joke of the day, and is remembered

The following year he deserted his wife and infant daughter, and shortly afterward turned up in Albany. There he obtained a large sum to three years in the penitentiary. When he was released he was fairly launched on his career of crime.

In 1874 he married, in Chicago, as his was in Ohio getting married to No. 3. She was the daughter of a well known whose name he forged to a note

Reward For His Capture.

Kansas City afforded him now, as "Eugene Bonner," a brief refuge from these complications early in 1876, but he left his shelter with a reward of $59 offered for his capture. A brief period of law work in Peoria, under the patronage of a leading light of a Christian association, was interrunted Christian association, was interrupted ought a more congenial sphere in Salt

In 1878 "Bonner" went to Detroit, where he joined a traveling company of actors. In Chicago again, in the same year, he married wife No. 4—Miss Eliza Huntoon. He was then going under the name of Bannerton. Abandoning the stage, he settled in New Lisbon, Wis., where he practiced as a lawyer for some time, gaining great confidence in the place, but borrowing money and forging a number and the young man escaped, leaving

Sargent, a woman with a leaning to spiritualism and the control of some money. Having met her at a seance, he developed great assiduity in spiritualistic studies, and in February, 1885, he induced the woman to fly with him to West Virginia, leaving her husband, but not her money, behind. The pair resided in Charleston, where a Mr. Dana was victimized to the tune of $3,009. About 1886 the man disappeared altogether, and the police authorities of the leading cities in this country, where he was well, but not favorably, known, had supposed him dead until word was received from Melbourne showing that he was at his old tricks in that far-off land.

Riter advanced the view that the gospel of the Latter-day Saints is the panacea for the political, social and financial ills which disturb and where its teachings are accepted and practiced that it would overcome the present ills of the universe. He added that the application of the re-ligion in everyday life would bring about a social, moral and financial con-dition which would be prefect.

dition which would be perfect.

Mr. Riter declared that when the Mormon religion is accepted universally the battleships of the world will be thrown into a junk heap, and that the millions of money now used to maintain large standing armies would be used to educate the people and add to the general prosperity and happiness of the world. That is why the church is sending out its hundreds of missionaries every ways and teaching all names. aries every year and teaching all na-tions the true religion. His closing re-marks, while not deprecating modern education, were confined to a course of reasoning to show that it robs the mind of a true conception of God. Three Hundred Persons at Reception

Given by Mr. and Mrs. Neill. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Neill.

A large and brilliant gathering filled the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Neili yesterday afternoon and evening at one of the most delightful affairs ever given in the city—the reception in honor of Miss Carrie Bridewell. The rooms were filled during the hours of the afternoon and fill 7 in the evening with more than 300 of the friends of Mrs. Kate Bridewell Anderson and Mrs. Neill, having called to meet the talented singer. The long hall was hung artistically with flags and arranged in charming manner with cosy corners and divans, and the rooms were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums. During the afternoon several delightful selections were rendered by the Ashworth-Squires quartette, Professor Anderson and Mrs. Osborne.

PIONEER OF RAIL YIELDS TO DEATH

James Campbell, Who Holds the Track-laying Record, Dies.

HE WAS FRIEND OF LINCOLN

FORMER SUPERINTENDENT OF SALT LAKE DIVISION OF S. P.

AMES CAMPBELL, a pioneer railroad builder, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln, and one of the historic characters of the west, died at the Cullen hotel in this city yesterday from an at tack of pneumonia. The disease was contracted in Dry canyon, where Mr. Campbell, despite his 70 years of age, was superintending the construction of a concentrating mill. Mr. Campbell began railroading over a half century ago, and superintended the construction of the Southern Pacific from California to Ogden. During his lifetime he broke the world's record for fast track-laying, and was for years a superintendent of the Salt Lake division of the Southern Pacific road. In early days he was conductor on an Illinois road, and there met Abraham Lincoln, about whom he used to tell many interesting reminiscences. The death of Mr. Campbell marks the passing of one who knew railroad work from its infancy, and who saw the wheels of progress roll over the untamed west and convert its sage brush-covered plains into productive farms, well stocked cattle ranges and busy cities. He saw the day when he and one clerk handled all the business of the Southern Pacific between the coast and Ogden, that now requires hundreds of clerks to look after. Such is the progress he has witnessed in half a century. erintending the construction of a con-

Interested in Dry Canyon.

Mr. Campbell has for years been a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., but about a year and a haif ago he came to this city, and became interested in some mining operations in Dry canyon. He took up his residence at the Cullen, and has made that his home since. At his advanced age he undertook to supervise the construction of a mill in Dry canyon for the Mono Mining & Milling company, in which he was interested, and successfully completed the work only a short time ago. The altitude there was too much for him, and he contracted a cold that soon resulted in an attack of pneumonia. A few days ago it became evident that he could not withstand the attack and his wife was summoned from their home in Los Angeles in time to reach his bedside before his death.

Mr. Campbell was born in Londondery, Ireland, in 1832, and came to America when a lad II years of age. When but a young man he turned his attention to railroading, and in the early '50s took up that work. His ability as a builder was quickly recognized by the railroad company and in the '60s he was sent west to superintend the construction of the Southern Pacific from California to Ogden. This work he attended to from the time the first grading was commenced until the last spike was driven that completed the road to Ogden. This wors at the time when the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific were racing with each other, the former from the west and the latter from the east, for the right of way to the coast. Track-laying was being pushed with all speed, and it was while laying this track that Mr. Campbell broke the world's record for fast track-laying, by laying ten miles more of track in a day than any other man has ever laid in the same length of time.

After completing this work Mr. Campbell was made division superintendent of the Salt Lake division of the road, and he spent many years of his life looking after the interests of the road. In those days big railroad offices and numbers of clerks were unknown in the western railroad world, and Mr. Campbell in his later life has remarked to his friends that when he was division superintendent of the Southern Pacific he and one clerk handled all the business of the road. Now hundreds of clerks are required to handle the increase of business that has come in a half century. After severing his connection with the railroad Mr. Campbell in he was the pearly days of railroading and a half ago.

PRINCE VISITED KANSAS CITY.

Kaneas City, Mo., Nov. 9.—The crown prince of Siam broke his western journey by a two hours' stop here, the time being spent in a drive through the city. For the first time since landing at New York the prince was welcomed by a native of Siam, Nai Luang, a student at the Atchison (Kan.), college. He presented the prince with a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The next stop of the party will be at Colorado Springs tomorrow, the best part of the day being allotted to sightseeing. The party reached Kansas City at 10 o'clock this morning in a special train on the Chicago & Alton, and left at noon on the Rock Island system.
